

If I Just Wait

Cloe Dance

Lord, I get too anxious to see the solution, every detailed solved.
If only I could remember that You do well in every situation
That I allow You to be involved.
You never find a problem too difficult to undertake,
But I just try to do it all, and end up in error and mistake.
It seems with all my effort, my thoughts, and words and deed,
That I have all the answers for everyone to succeed.
If only I would wait and listen for You to hear my prayer,
I know all things would work out, within Your loving care.

Why do I, without hesitation, try to shove all the obstacles thrown
my way,
When You with Truth and wisdom,
With all my burdens at Your feet to lay?
With no direction, no rhyme or reason, I hurry to an unscheduled race...
To change the world's situation and all known problems to erase.
Can I not see or wait for you to display that you do all things well,
And in order – as I trust and obey?
Father, before this day is all too quickly destroyed by my impatient childish schemes, and I become annoyed...
Lord, I surrender all my anxious fleeting thoughts,
And with expectant heart I lay this day before You –
Right now! At its start!
